Video LLQP Course from ILScorp Brings Life Insurance Licensing Online

COURTENAY, BC – January 16, 2008

On Wednesday, ILScorp launched the first fully online Life Licensing Qualification Program (LLQP) for individuals desiring to enter into the Life Insurance business. Steve Hawrishok, ILScorp Founder and President describes their online LLQP as a one-step licensing program designed to raise the educational standards and skill level for agents entering the profession. And, it's all online.

For the first time in Canada, individuals preparing for their life licensing examination can take the complete LLQP study program online using ILScorp's streaming-video presentation format. The ILScorp LLQP negates the need for a textbook as all of the information needed to successfully challenge the LLQP provincial examination is included in the online course. Comprehensive case studies, sample exam questions and scenarios are incorporated into the curriculum and offered to students at no extra charge.

“What we're really doing is bringing the classroom experience online,” said Mr. Hawrishok. “The ILScorp LLQP lets students access the course where and when they want while providing some of the best instruction available.”

The ILScorp LLQP online course is facilitated by Bob Ransom, CLU, CHFC and CFP. Mr. Ransom has been an active member of the Canadian insurance and financial services industry for over 30 years. He has spent many of those years in the development and delivery of Accident and Sickness and Life Insurance Certification courses and related workshops.

The ILScorp LLQP course is available now for an introductory price of $299. “We see great value in this course,” said ILScorp CEO and Vice-President Ken MacRae. “Not only are the monetary savings very attractive, but the educational value that the students get out of this course is unprecedented – online or in person. Bob Ransom has successfully prepared thousands of individuals to sit their licensing exam while teaching in a classroom setting. Going online with ILScorp is just a natural progression of that life work.”

ILScorp is the largest online insurance and financial services education provider in Canada with over 20,000 registered users. ILScorp is the only company to offer streaming online video training for the insurance and financial services industries. With the addition of the LLQP course to their course catalogue, ILScorp now offers several licensing preparation courses including Level 1 and Level 2 General Insurance licensing for five provinces and CAIB preparation courses for all Canadian jurisdictions. ILScorp is dedicated to providing specialized insurance and financial services education to Canadian professionals.
